ABSTRACT

Indiscipline in secondary schools has been a national issue in Kenya as far as educational administration is concerned. There has been such remarkable and ugly face of it when it turns into arson and murder like Kyangulis St. Kizito and Nyeri High School. This issue of indiscipline in schools has to be dealt with thoroughly if any meaningful curriculum is to be implemented. Although there are several factors that lead to indiscipline, much blame has been entirely placed upon the students, teachers' laxity and head teachers incompetence while other certain underlying administrative factors ignored. One such other factor is the indiscipline of the non-teaching staff in our secondary schools.
